

TRIO PLANT NAMES      PAROE SAVANNA      1968

THE TEAM

During our expedition (1968-69) to the Sipaliwini Savanna in Southern Surinam we paid a visit to Pouso Tirio, an Amerindian village on the Paroe Savanna close to the Surinam-Brazil border.

We received a warm welcome by the Trio Indians and the local missionaries . *
After a few days of mutual curiosity, we were able to organize a joint botanical trip across the nearby savanna to record Trio plant names.

The following list is the result of a few hours botanizing. The observation skills and knowledge of our Trio companions were amazing. Even grasses and sedges are on the list. To be sure we did some double checking. They consequently gave us the same name for the same species.

* Details of our visit to the Trio's will be published on this site as part of the TRAVEL STORY.
